Description

BlueCut Armguard – Cut-Resistant Arm Guard for Food Processing

The BlueCut Armguard is a cut-resistant arm guard for use in food processing as well as in kitchen and counter environments. It protects the forearm from cuts and abrasions that can occur when working with knives and sharp tools. With a length of 25 cm, it provides reliable coverage of the forearm area. The universal size allows broad application without the need for size selection.

Product Features

- Cut protection for the forearm when working with knives and sharp tools
- Suitable for use in food processing, production, and kitchen and counter environments
- Universal size for straightforward provision and broad application
- Low weight for fatigue-reduced wear during extended work phases
