Description

Synthetic Gloves – Hygiene Protection for Production, Kitchen and Counter

The black synthetic gloves are disposable gloves for use in food processing, production, and at kitchen and counter workstations. They protect hands and products alike from contamination and are designed for quick, straightforward changing during ongoing operations. The black colour is suitable for visual area identification or to distinguish individual work zones.

Product Features

- Protection against contamination when working with food, at counters and in production
- Synthetic material as an alternative to latex
- Suitable for use when working with skewers and wooden utensils
- Designed for hygienic single use
- Black colour enables visual area assignment within the operation
