Description

Thermo Butcher Cap – Insulating Head Cover for Use in Production and Kitchen Environments

The Thermo Butcher Cap is an insulating protective head cover for use in food processing, slaughterhouses, and kitchen and counter areas. It protects the head from cold temperatures typically found in cold stores, refrigerated display cases, and low-temperature production areas. The cap is designed to meet the hygiene and ergonomic requirements of food industry environments.

Product Features

- Thermal insulation for protection against cold in refrigerated areas and production facilities
- Suitable for use in meat processing, butchery, as well as kitchen and counter environments
- Fit and wearing comfort designed for extended shifts
- Supports compliance with hygiene and workwear regulations in food industry operations
